The goal of the Northwoods Alliance for Children and Families is to create a regional system of care that will enable even small rural counties to successfully meet the needs of families whose children have severe emotional and behavioral disorders. The primary strategies of the Alliance are (1) creating a capitated managed care system that blends funding streams, controls costs, and preserves local service planning and delivery; (2) providing a path for system integration for rapid access to resources through an interactive information management system and data base and cross-system service collaboration; (3) ensuring reliable and sustainable positive outcomes for children and their families through the use of individual planning and support teams combining formal and informal community resources supported by access to a wide variety of existing services and a flexible pool of funds for rapid service development; and (4) obtaining community buy-in, interagency collaboration, blending of local funds, region-wide community team of family members, governmental, organizational, tribal, and community leaders with representation from each of the participating counties.

This project will offer existing educational opportunities to families of children and adolescents with emotional, behavioral, and mental disorders, who are yet to be reached in Wisconsin. From these educational experiences, parent leaders can be identified. Plans are to build upon and expand the current Family Contact network to include families geographically not yet represented and to increase the numbers of minority families, so that Wisconsin Family Ties (WFT) can continue to reflect current demographics of the State. This will ensure that more families are involved in various collaborative relationships working for systems change. The project also plans to develop and implement a progressively comprehensive marketing plan. To build awareness, understanding, and acceptance of the issues that families face, the plan will include a variety of public relations activities that are cognizant of the diversity of gender, age, language, and cultural background.

The Milwaukee Community Prevention Coalition is working to reduce substance abuse and related problems by offering comprehensive, neighborhood-based, integrated prevention opportunities throughout Milwaukee County. The Coalition is establishing a network of six Neighborhood Resource Centers. Each center provides core services such as a drop-in center, three daily support group meetings, child care, access to food and meals, information and referral to comprehensive services, volunteer and mentoring opportunities for recovering individuals, linkages to Neighborhood Partners and community organizing efforts, and family activities in a drug- and alcohol-free environment.
